D&D Adventurers League Dungeoncraft Adventures: Wild Beyond the Witchlight

Version 1.1

You can create your own DUNGEONS & DRAGONS adventures set in a fey domain of your own design using The Wild Beyond the Witchlight and Domains of Delight provided you follow the guidelines provided in this document. Domains of Delight can be found for sale in the DMs Guild. In order to create your own adventures, you'll also want the adventure templates and style guides used for the Dungeoncraft program. They can be found on the DM's Guild here.

GENERAL GUIDELINES

The Wild Beyond the Witchlight is a departure thematically from some of the traditional pillars of D&D, typically through non-combat approaches to solving challenges (although not exclusively so). Consider taking inspiration from this approach when you design your own Feywild adventures. There is a section in the Domains of Delight supplement that suggests various fairytale and folklore books which might be helpful to inspire you as well.

TECHNICAL INFORMATION

A template is provided for use, including the Community Created DDAL Logo. You must use this template. This logo must appear on your adventure (see "Additional Guidelines" below). You should be familiar with the D&D Style Guide (also provided) as well. Please review the Wizards and the DMs Guild Content Guidelines. There is also the option for producing a more accessiblity-friendly version of your adventure. The template for that will be available shortly. Only you (or a co-designer) can run your adventure until it is published in the Dungeon Masters Guild. If you intend to publish your adventure on the Dungeon Masters Guild, it must appear for sale by August 31, 2022. There are no exceptions to this rule. If you do not publish your adventure you can continue to run it yourself through Dec. 31st 2022.

CRAFTING YOUR ADVENTURE

Adventure Duration. Your adventure can be either two or four hours in length. Adventures of shorter or longer duration are not permitted.

Using Creatures. You can use creatures suggested in the Domain Denizens table which are from the Monster Manual and The Wild Beyond the Witchlight. Other monsters from Mordenkainen's Tome of Foes, or Volo's Guide to Monsters can be included, but should be used sparingly. Stat blocks must appear as printed. If an instruction in the document includes a change to a stat block, mark that change with an asterisk "*" and include a note after the stat block explaining the asterisk. You cannot use the archfey presented in Domains of Delight.

Adventure Setting. Most of the adventure must take place in the domain you create. If, for story purposes, they need to start not in your domain, then you should choose a location in the Forgotten Realms. Only you or a co-designer can create adventures in your domain.

Canonical Elements. It is important to note that your adventure cannot feature the Prismeer domain featured in The Wild Beyond the Witchlight.

REWARDS

At the end of this document, you will find three tables of magic items. Consumables can be from any DDAL allowed source (most will be from the Dungeon Master's Guide). Choose the magic item rewards for your adventure from these tables using the following:

- 2-hour tier 1 (levels 1-4): choose 1 item from list A and up to 3 common or 1 uncommon consumables.
- 4-hour tier 1 (levels 1-4): choose 1 item from list A, 1 from column B and up to 3 common or uncommon consumables.
- 2-hour tier 2 (levels 5-10) choose 1 item from list C and up to 3 common or uncommon consumables.
- 4-hour tier 2 (levels 5-10) choose 1 item from list C, 1 from column B and up to 3 common or uncommon consumables.

Although not required, you can add 1 minor property or quirk to each non-consumable magic item (see the Dungeon Master's Guide, page 143). Take inspiration from your adventure setting's theme or Feywild themes in general when choosing these.

Gold Rewards. These are based on tier. This is total gold for the group, not individual. Treasure such as gems, coins, art objects, and anything else portable that isn't adventuring gear counts towards the gold rewards listed.

GOLD REWARDS BY ADVENTURE TIER

Tier Min. Max. 1 100 gp 500 gp 2 1000 gp 5000 gp

USING DOMAINS OF DELIGHT

Follow the method outlined in the Domains of Delight for creating your domain for use in your adventure. In places where the document implies you can decide on the fly what triggers something (such as in "Weird Magic" section) you need to define what occurs or give the DM a short list of options appropriate for your domain. If it is something presented to only be used if you need to create something on the fly, then the use of the tables is optional, such is the case for Feywild Guides. You can use the tables in that section as inspiration or for creating NPCs. A few sections need additional guidance for use in D&D Adventurers League and are presented below.

FEY OUTLOOK

The information that is presented here should be reflected in your NPCs, but also should be something a helpful fey guide might present in a tier 1 (levels 1-4) adventure.

FEY PACTS

Fey Pacts can be used but should be limited to a specific task/need of either the fey or the adventurers rather than a random occurrence.

Lesser Pact Gifts. These can be used in tier 1 (levels 1-4) or tier 2 (levels 5-10) adventures. The following restrictions apply (note if no adjustment to the reward is needed it is not listed):

- Charm. This gift cannot include either the Charm of Restoration or the Charm of the Slayer.
- Fey Kinship. This does not persist past the end of the adventure.
- Guide. The Guide can be a reoccurring NPC if you write more than one adventure, otherwise this benefit does not persist outside of the adventure.
- Invitation. This should occur within the scope of the adventure.
- Minor Magic Item. Uncommon item use is limited to the adventure, but it does not count toward the characters max magic item limit for that time, however if it requires attunement normal attunement rules apply.
- Proficiency. This does not persist past the end of the adventure.
- Spell Casting. This does not persist past the end of the adventure.

Greater Pact Gifts. These can only be used in tier 2 (levels 5-10) and the following rules apply (note if no adjustment to the reward is needed it is not listed):

- Audience. This should occur within the adventure time frame.
- Major Magic Item. Legendary items are limited to use within the adventure and are not available as rewards.
- Time Displacement is useful only if the player intends to retire their character.
- The fey cannot grant a Title for locations within the Forgotten Realms (such as "Duke of Daggerford") but can grant a title in your created domain (such a "Baron Snowfen of Skylar").
- The amount listed in Wealth is changed to the following: 10,000 gp.
- Safety. This can be used within the framework of the adventure but generally is not impactful in D&D Adventurers League.
- The wish spell is still subject to D&D Adventurers League rules regarding scope of what can be gained and the permanency (or lack thereof) of anything granted through the spell.

COST OF A FEY PACT

While the "your firstborn" is a traditional cost (Greater Pact) do not use this as in D&D Adventurers League play there is no "real cost" to the character. Many of the costs listed for Greater Pacts are only appropriate if that is in fact the focus of the adventure (perform 3 quests, return legendary item that was stolen, etc.).

BREAKING A PACT

When making a pact is part of the adventure, then one of these consequences should be included. Make sure you include the information regarding how this can be reversed in your adventure.

FEY CURSES

You can choose the effect instead of rolling if using this in your adventure or give the DM a list of three possibilities to choose from. If removal is not completed by the conclusion of the adventure, then it persists for one more adventure or session afterwards. At the end of the next adventure or session, it disappears.

CREATING YOUR ARCHFEY

You can use the tables randomly, choose from the features listed or consider them more of a guide to what is feasible/allowed. If you intend for the characters to fight the archfey, then for tier 1 (levels 1-4) you are limited to a max CR 10 creature and for tier 2 a max CR 15 creature.

MAGICAL GIFTS

Anytime an entry says "it will vanish after a specified amount of time" that time is the adventure. A few gifts have additional modifiers.

- Charm. This gift cannot include either the Charm of Restoration or the Charm of the Slayer.
- Refuge. While this gift does vanish after the adventure it first appears in, if you write another adventure in your domain you can indicate that the refuge reappears for the duration of that adventure.
- Training. This normally costs 250 downtime days and 1gp/day (PH 187) and is also limited to languages or tool proficiencies. The archfey instead grants a specific training or daily inspiration. The adventure must specify which language, tool proficiency, skill proficiency, or feat the archfey grants through training. Only one option may be select from the list below.
  - One specific language or tool proficiency. 50 downtime days, 0 gp.
  - o Daily inspiration. 20 downtime days, 0 gp.
  - One specific skill proficiency. 100 downtime days plus 100 gp.
  - One specific feat. Must be from a player allowed resource. 200 downtime plus 250 gp

ADDITIONAL GUIDELINES: THE FINE PRINT

- At your option, you can publish your adventure on the Dungeon Masters Guild. Until published, only the designers (maximum two individuals) can run the adventure.
- You and up to one co-designer can create a domain for use for your adventures. No one else, including other codesigners, may use the setting of that domain for future Dungeoncraft adventures.
- The D&D Adventurers League Content Managers do not need to review your adventure for you to run or publish it.
- Please include stat blocks for any creature you use in your adventure that does not appear in the Monster Manual.
- Adventures must use the template provided.
- When published on the Dungeon Masters Guild (or listed in an event program), your adventure must use the WBW-DC code to identify it as a Dungeoncraft Adventure intended for use during this Seasonal Campaign. This code should appear in the upper left corner of your cover. (If you intend to write multiple adventures, then we suggest that you consider using a three-letter identifier in you code such as the domain name so people can quickly find them. For example: WBW-DC-SKY-01 for the first adventure in series set in a created domain called Skylar.
- The DDAL Community Created logo and the DMs Guild logo must appear on the cover. No other logos should appear on the cover
- All Dungeoncraft Adventures published on the DMs Guild must abide by the rules provided by the DMs Guild in terms of content that can be published in that marketplace.
- Adventures must be written for a single table of players.
   These cannot be epics/multi-table events.

IMPORTANT: Dungeoncraft Adventures can be removed from the DMs Guild at any time for failing to meet these standards, those prescribed by the DMs Guild, or for any other reason deemed necessary by Wizards of the Coast. Additionally, any designer(s) publishing a Dungeoncraft Adventure on the Dungeon Masters Guild or running one that does not follow these rules can have their ability to continue to create and publish sanctioned content under these rules suspended or revoked.

OPTION 2. USING ADVENTURE SEEDS

If you are not interested in creating your own domain, do not despair! We have an alternative method for creating Dungeoncraft adventures by using the following adventure seeds and the Archfey described in the Domains of Delight. These adventure seeds are set in Fablerise, a small domain that has only recently appeared in Thither (see The Wild Beyond the Witchlight for more information about Prismeer, its archfey ruler and Thither, as well as a picture depicting this archfey).

GENERAL GUIDELINES

The Wild Beyond the Witchlight is a departure thematically from some of the traditional pillars of D&D, typically through non-combat approaches to solving challenges (although not exclusively so). Consider taking inspiration from this approach when you design your own Feywild adventures. There is a section in the Domains of Delight supplement that suggests various fairytale and folklore books which might be helpful to inspire you as well.

TECHNICAL INFORMATION

A template is provided for use, including the Community Created DDAL Logo. You must use this template. This logo must appear on your adventure (see "Additional Guidelines" below). You should be familiar with the D&D Style Guide (also provided) as well. Please review the Wizards and the DMs Guild Content Guidelines. There is also the option for producing a more Accessibly friendly version of your adventure. The template for that will be available shortly. Only you (or a co-designer) can run your adventure until it is published in the Dungeon Masters Guild. If you intend to publish your adventure on the Dungeon Masters Guild, it must appear for sale by August 31, 2022. There are no exceptions to this rule. If you do not publish your adventure you can continue to run it yourself through Dec. 31st 2022.

CRAFTING YOUR ADVENTURE

Adventure Duration. Your adventure can be either two or four hours in length. Adventures of shorter or longer duration are not permitted.

Using Creatures. You can use creatures suggested in the Domain Denizens table which are from the Monster Manual and The Wild Beyond the Witchlight. Other monsters from Mordenkainen's Tome of Foes, or Volo's Guide to Monsters can be included, but should be used sparingly. Stat blocks must appear as printed.

Adventure Setting. The adventure can start in the Forgotten Realms, in Thither, or Fablerise. Other planes and mindscapes are not allowed, not even briefly. Fablerise and its archfey the Yarnspinner are detailed in the Domains of Delight, information on Thither is in The Wild Beyond the Witchlight.

Canonical Elements. It's important to note that your adventure can't feature the death of NPCs or the destruction of locations featured in The Wild Beyond the Witchlight.

You can use the information about the fey provided in the Domains of Delight (including the restrictions listed in the previous section) within the context of the Adventure Seed used.

USING THE ADVENTURE SEEDS

Each adventure seed has a set level restriction, as well as assigned character rewards that your adventure can use. Your adventure can't provide character rewards above and beyond what's listed, including story awards or downtime activities.

Adventure Seed Title. These are placeholder titles. Please create a unique title for your adventure when it's completed and ready to run. You are to add the name of the seed in the credit section.

Adventure Seed Level Range. This is the range of levels that your adventure can accommodate.

Adventure Seed Hook. The content of your adventure should be based off this single evocative sentence.

Adventure Seed Rewards. Your adventure can provide the items listed as rewards.

If it's a two-hour adventure, you can include only those two items.

If it's a four-hour adventure, you can include the magic item listed, in addition to those items listed for two-hour adventures.

Gold Rewards. These are based on tier. This is total gold for the group, not individual. Treasure such as gems, coins, art objects, and anything else portable that isn't adventuring gear counts towards the gold rewards listed.

GOLD REWARDS BY ADVENTURE TIER

Tier Min. Max. 1 100 gp 500 gp 2 1000 gp 5000 gp
